The above item shows how the county is growing agriculturally. Ten years ago such a thing could not have occurred, because there was no haystack to hit and no thunderstorm to furnish lightning.

Ishnavogue.

Those who went to see James Ward in Irish comedy last night were not disappointed. James Ward has built up a wide reputation in the portrayal of Irish characters, and assisted by his wife, Carrie Clark, and an excellent company, gave a splendid rendition of the play. Ward has an inimitable brogue, and gives the pure Irish eccentricity without the coarseness with which many actors invest the Irish character. His work is all clean cut, and the company see that all the points in the sparkling drama are well brought out. Tonight "The Red Fox" will be presented, and in this piece Mr. Ward is fairly in his element. It is full of dramatic and tragic incident, and gives Mr. Ward a fine opportunity for the display of his powers.

THE MINT ALL RIGHT.

Stewart Sees the Full Appropriation.

WASHINGTON, July 24, 1888. S. P. DAVIS, ED. APPEAL:—

A cut in wages has been ordered at the Carson Mint. The watchmen are only paid $2.50 per day. It is not likely the Government will get responsible men to work at those wages. —Eureka Sentinel. (Dem.)

I have noticed the above item floating about your State in various papers, and as you have seen fit to publish it, it is probably about time to question it. I do so because the Mint will have the regular appropriation of $114,500, instead of $44,950 as proposed by the House, and therefore there ought to be enough money to pay the old salaries.

It may be of interest to your readers to state how the sum of $114,500 was obtained after the Director of the Mint had recommended the abandonment of the Carson Mint.

The Legislative appropriation bill as it passed the House provided for only $44,750 for the Mint. When it came into the Senate and was referred to the Appropriation Committee Senator Stewart appeared before that Committee and made an argument for the regular allowance of $114,500. He explained the situation of the Mint and showed how vastly its business had increased within the last few months. The Committee acted favorably upon Senator Stewart's recommendation, and increased the appropriation to the sum last stated. When the Conference Committee of the two Houses met to consider the Senate amendments to the bill, it was necessary for Senator Stewart to make another argument in defense of the amendment increasing the Carson Mint appropriation to $114,500. The amendment was agreed to, the bill has passed both Houses and the Mint is saved.

Had the sum of only $44,950 been provided for the Mint as the House proposed, that institution would very likely have shut down before six months of the present fiscal year had passed.

ISAAC FROHMAN.
WHISKY DID IT.

An Indian Beaten to Death by his Comrades.

On Sunday afternoon at Dangleberg's ranch, Douglas Co., the Indians employed in haying got hold of some whisky and had a free fight. One of the Indians was pounced on by the others and literally beaten to death. His face was horribly mangled and his head pounded with rocks. The Indians dispersed to the hills after the tragedy.

Is Cassidy All He Claims?

The Carson APPEAL says Cassidy is honest enough to differ with his party and openly admits that he believes in protection. This is trash. When in Congress Mr. Cassidy voted for the Morrison Horizontal bill, and had he been in Congress would have voted for the Mills bill. He believes in free wool, and has not the courage of Randall. Cassidy may be a protectionist in Nevada but at Washington he swallows the whole Democratic hog.—Reno Journal.

Cassidy should openly define his position on this question if he is a protectionist in Nevada and a free trader in Congress, he ought not to get 100 votes in this State.

They are Here.

During the month of June 50,000 immigrants landed in New York from Italy and Slavonia. Most of them struck out for the iron regions to take the places of the striking laborers. That is the way the high tariff on iron protects the American workingman against the pauper labor of Europe.—Chronicle.

The Chronicle's attention is called to the fact that these immigrants are some of the "bone and muscle" welcomed to the United States not long ago by the Democratic platform.

BLAINE IN THE CAMPAIGN.

He Will Make Protection His Strong Point.

There will be two James G. Blaines on the stump, but not until Autumn. James G. Blaine Jr. is spending July at Seabright. He said to a reporter: "Father will make several speeches soon after his return from Europe, probably, but he will not go into campaign until September. We expect that he will not two months of hard work for Harrison and Morton." "What will be his oratorical specialty?" "Protection. That is the issue you know, and he will devote himself to it." Being asked if the rumor was true that he was going to take the stump, young Mr. Blaine replied: Yes, I expect to make some speeches—as many as our people deem desirable. The programme is not yet made out definitely, but I anticipate that father will speak in the cities of New York, Connecticut, New Jersey and Indiana—say forty to fifty speeches in September and October. "Can he stand it? Yes. His health is good, no matter what has been said to the contrary. My own appearance on the stump will be of comparatively small account, of course, and I am willing to go wherever the Campaign Committee dictates. I shall talk tariff, too, and it is hardly necessary to add that my father's views are mine.

Artesian Wells.

The Overland Monthly for August opens with an article about the great artesian belt of the Upper San Joaquin Valley, written by Charles H. Shinn, and illustrated by a score of cuts of great variety and striking interest, from photographs and drawings by Peixoto—a name that will become known if he continues work like the present. The great flowing wells are shown, and many charming bits of scenery and figure work.

Mr. Shinn has covered a great deal of ground in his article, and shows how prosperous the country has been made by artesian wells. The article ought to be circulated through Nevada, that Nevada ranchers in this county may profit by the experience of others.

Another Precinct Heard From.

Walter Holbrook, of the Depot Hotel, has determined to cast his lot with the Republicans. It all happened this way: A few evenings since Mr. Holbrook was enjoying rest and refreshment in the company of a friend when the subject of "free trade" came up and his friend remarked: "To hell mit de administration an' free trade. My peesnes is ruined all ready. When der Republicans was in power I sell my goods for more as I do now and I make some profits; but now dis free wool preaks all up." Holbrook says he will vote for Harrison and "protection to American industries."—Eiko Independent.

Sullivan Kicked Out.

Boston, July 28.—John L. Sullivan met with a little adventure three or four nights ago that did not end at all as he anticipated. He entered a South Boston barroom at an hour when it was filled with 'longshoremen, and filling up on mixed drinks started to clean the place out. He knocked down one inoffensive toiler, when he was set upon by the whole crowd, who knocked him down, jumped on him and otherwise maltreated the champion slugger. When he was finally released he left the place much bruised.
